

Dandelion

stubborn little thing

so familiar with the city, never fails to push itself up at the side of pavements dig deep roots

in alley-ways

in the hottest of summers challenges the concrete —