

Look Who's in the Toy Box

My mum and dad aren't normal I know saying it's not good I love them and they're special but I'd change them if I could.

The problem isn't homework or making me do chores they cook nice food and buy me gifts and neither of them snores.

The issue with my parents which has got me in a fix is that they're made of Lego – yes – they're made of plastic bricks.

It might sound fun to others but believe me when I say Mum's head rolling down the playground is the worst part of my day.

My dad is strong and muscly he can lift up Lego trees but he never goes upstairs to bed as he cannot bend his knees.

Mum has two expressions she can smile and she can scowl one on the front and one on the back her head swivels like an owl.

My friends are understanding my teacher's been a star but I've decided to exchange them for a turbo racing car.