

Wood Frog

When the light slopes off like a wounded lover's shoulder the blood freezes solid in the snowflake delta of your veins when spring's tongue comes licking though no-one believed it would your stopped heart begins to beat again your webbed fists open like a gift.