

Skittles

Over cherryade (supermarket's own),

I told my dreams to a stranger:

how the dark

had been taken,

how birds can't fly

& kingfishers were fined for fishing out of season, how my sister plots to live in water & never find the surface.

Back home I drink beer from the bucket, think of mud & teeth & earth too hollow to hold us.