

Lucy

Lucy, are you listening?
Please can you tidy up?
Could you put your toys away
And rinse your water cup?

Lucy, are you listening?
I'm asking once again,
For you to please be helpful
While I'm dancing with this hen.

Lucy, are you listening?
Because I think perhaps, you're not.
Your tea is on the table,
A delicious plate of snot.

Lucy, are you listening?
My head is full of cheese,
My bottom has turned upside down,
My feet now want to sneeze.

Lucy, are you listening?
Oh look, Nana's on the telly!
Your knees and nostrils are on fire,
And the house has turned to jelly.

Lucy, are you listening?
It's like I'm talking to a wall.
I'm off to China with a miner
To attend a fancy ball.

Lucy, are you listening?
Because I've been asking you for years!
Oh, I'm done, I'm off to bed
With bananas in my ears!

Mummy, can you hear me?
Where are you? What's for tea?
Mummy, mummy, MUMMY!
Why aren't you listening to me?
